ICLaVe
Workshop 4: Quantitative Analysis of Language Variation in Time and Space

Friday 14.55 - 18.10

Organisers: Sjef Barbiers & Ton Goeman

14.55 - 15.25
1. Is a ‘History and Geography of Human Syntax’ meaningful?
   Chiara Gianollo, Universita’ di Pisa & Cristina Guardiano Universita’ di Modena e Reggio Emilia, Giuseppe Longobardi, Universita’ di Trieste Italy

15.30 - 16.00
2. The rise of the reflexive pronoun ‘zich’ in a Netherlands’ border dialect in the 15th century: language-internal response-mechanisms in a language contact situation.
   Gertjan Postma & Michel Verhagen, University of Nijmegen Netherlands

16.00 - 16.30
   coffee / tea break

16.30 - 17.00
   Sjef Barbiers & Ton Goeman Meertens Instituut Amsterdam, Netherlands

17.05 - 17.35
4. Aggregating Syntactic Variation: The Forest behind the Trees.
   Marco René Spruit, Meertens Instituut & John Nerbonne, University of Groningen, Netherlands

17.40 - 18.10
5. ‘Es bairns dinae spik ’e Doric ony mair’. How current changes in rural Scots can help us understand some of the sociolinguistic influences on the diffusion of language change.
   Jonathan Marshall, the University of Gloucestershire, England.